

Data privacy at HADOM

How to control your personal information

Manage how your personal info is used and shared.

Is your data sold?

Rest assured, HADOM doesn't sell your personal information to third parties such as data brokers or other data resellers. However, certain privacy laws broadly define "sell" to include different types of data sharing with third parties.

Sometimes, information such as device identifiers is used to personalize ads for our services on third party apps, websites and social networks, and to measure ad campaigns and analytics. We may also use device identifiers to connect you with bars or restaurants we think you'll like.

What are your options?

You can opt out of HADOM's sharing of personal information in this way by sending the email address associated with your HADOM account to support@hadom.com with the subject line "Opt out of personal information sharing." If you used your Amazon, Apple, Facebook, or Google login to create your HADOM account, please provide the email address tied to that account.

- Once you opt out, we'll disable cookies set by advertising partners and social media companies that could be considered "selling," and you will no longer receive personalized offers from HADOM on those sites or services. You may still see ads from HADOM, but they will be less personalized.
- Your personal information won't be shared with our bar and restaurant partners. This means you may not receive deals and offers they might otherwise communicate to you.

You can read more about how we use personal information in our Privacy Policy.
